

Making 2009 Matter

It is January 2009 and winter is doing its work on us here in Canada. From across the land we hear of snow, ice, cold winds and ... But as it is said – this is Canada and it is winter.

And what of the challenge to make our schools inclusive?

How are we doing?

What lies ahead in this new year?

We are interested in what you think. Follow the directions and sign in and make a comment letting us know your thoughts – we want to hear from parents, teachers, advocates, - everyone.

One of the highlights for me during the past year was the CASHRA Forum – on Human Rights and Inclusion held in Toronto in September. There were many interesting and provocative speakers and a lot of discussion by Participants. Check out the record of the discussion – then post a comment on the site.
